STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

The regular 1.30 P. M. train, for Portland, Saturday, from Lewiston, was startled by three sharp whistles, the other side of Falmouth, and the train was immediately stopped. On going back a couple of rods, a gentleman and lady were discovered beside a demolished sleigh, but the horse was nowhere to be seen. No injuries were sustained by them, and the train started on its way to Portland, after a delay of about ten minutes.

A telegram received in Auburn, Thursday, announced the death of R. R. Lombard, of Seattle, Washington Territory, on Saturday last. Mr. Lombard was a native of Auburn, a brother of I. C. Lombard, and was about sixty-four years of age. He has spent the last thirty years in Washington Territory, where he has transacted a large lumber trade. He made a lengthy visit to Auburn, last summer, the only visit to the east he has made since his removal to the west.

Henry Gould, of Lewiston, was riding on the Portland express, last Saturday, from Portland to Boston. He tired of sitting and went out on the platform to rest himself. The train had just passed Newburyport and was going at full speed. A sudden jostle of the car snapped him off the platform like a sprig from a whiplash and twirled him over and over. Somebody saw it and the alarm line was pulled. The train went back after a dead man but found Gould still in the flesh nursing a slight cut on his knee and otherwise uninjured.

Aroostook.

J. A. Millar, the Court street grocer, received an order last night from a gentleman in Texarkana, Ark., for a tub of butter to be sent by express C. O. D.

Number of cars shipped from Houlton station for the week ending January 14, and what they contained: Hay 15, lumber 1; miscellaneous 4, shingles 1, leather, oats, cattle and straw, 1 each; extract 2, potatoes 3. Total 33.

Mr. Spurr, of Caribou, while in the woods one day last week with his team, had the misfortune to have a tree fall upon his horses hitting one of them on the neck and wounding it so that it had to be hauled home. It is probably spoiled. The other escaped with slight injury.

It is estimated that not less than fifty cords of cedar for shingles are hauled into Caribou village daily, which together with the wood hauling and potatoes and long lumber with the regular business of the town, makes Caribou a lively village this winter.

Mr. McClish's little four-year-old boy died at Caribou, last week, after an illness of only three days. The disease is said to be diphtheria. Another boy twenty-two months old is sick but is expected to recover.

Officer Kay, of Houlton, arrested a hard customer last Tuesday night, and committed him to jail for assaulting a young lady, and for using indecent language to several other ladies. He was arraigned Wednesday before Trial Justice S. L. Tabor, and pleading guilty, was bound over to the May term of Superior Court. He will probably get a term in State Prison.

Cumberland.

Albert Walker, who was killed in the great railroad disaster at Bradford, Mass., was the first inhabitant of Harrison ever killed on a railroad. The news which came by telegraph early in the morning after the accident, created a great excitement at the village, and the crowd which gathered at the postoffice on the arrival of the noon mail reminded one of war times, or exciting elections.

A man from Saccarappa drove upon the railroad track at Woodford's after the gate on the opposite side had been let down. He did not have time to retreat and was scooped up by the cowcatcher of the engine and carried on to Lincoln street before the train could be stopped. Strange to say the man was not injured.

A prominent citizen of Saccarappa fell in with a stranger, in Boston, recently, who inquired if he was Mr. Jacob Morse, of Lewiston. The Saccarappa man thereupon told the stranger his name and business and the stranger was just getting a check cashed with the Saccarappa man's money, when a detective stepped up and stopped the sharper's game.

A petition, headed by John E. Warren, of Cumberland Mills, and very generally signed by the taxpayers of Westbrook, is to be presented to the Selectmen, asking that a reward be offered for the apprehension and conviction of the murderer of Mrs. Stacks. A reward of at least $500 will be offered.

A special meeting of the Portland Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument Association will be held at Army and Navy Hall, next Saturday evening at half-past seven o'clock. At this meeting the Association will be asked to decide definitely whether a monument or a memorial building shall be erected in Market Square.

A man went into W. F. Todd's jewelry store in Portland, Tuesday, and said Rev. Dr. Whitaker wanted him to bring down three watches to his house, as he wished to select one of them as a birthday present for his son. The jeweller declined to deliver the watches to the man, but sent a messenger to Dr. Whitaker's to inquire if he had authorized the stranger to call on him. Dr. Whitaker said he had given no such order.

The values of foreign cargoes from Portland for the week ending Tuesday, January 17, were as follows: Brig Mattie B. Russell, to Point au Pitre, lumber, fruit and vegetables, $1,938.69; barque Alexander Campbell to Mantanzas, lumber, shooks, potatoes and herring, $4,363; brig Hyperion, to St. Johns P. R., lumber and shooks, $3,911.30. The imports for the same week were 10,000 frozen herring from Grand Menan per schooner S. H. Pinkham, and 3,600 bushels potatoes from Prince Edwards Island per schooner Ethel and Addie.

A steam mill was built at Harrison village several years ago, and for a time did a small business, but owing to the financial embarrassment of the operator, it passed into the hands of other parties and has since remained idle. Mr. Horace F. Proctor, of Waterford, is intending to fit up the mill with new machinery, and put it into operation at an early date. It is also reported that a grist mill is to be put in. Mr. Proctor is an experienced millman and a first-class carpenter and will be quite likely to do an extensive business.

Last Saturday, while three brothers, named Jewett, were returning from a trip to the place where the barque A. O. McGuire went ashore at Portland Head Light a while ago, they unearthed a historical relic in the shape of an old cannon. The gun was originally ten feet in length, but the waves and rocks have worn away about three feet from the muzzle. From the appearance of the gun it is calculated that it has been in the water over one hundred years. Great grooves are worn in its sides, and in some places it is worn nearly into the bore. It weighs between 1,100 and 1,500 pounds.

A custom house broker at Portland has been notified by Phelps, Dodge & Co., metal importers, of New York, that they expect an invoice of merchandise from England to enter at this port. Nothing more definite than this in regard to steamers here, is known. The firm of Phelps, Dodge & Co., are large importers of tin plate. In the past these goods have come largely by the Dominion line direct from Bristol though carried by both the Dominion and Allan lines. One of the largest cargoes of tin plate ever brought to this country came in this way last winter, the steamer that brought it being loaded to her entire carrying capacity with tin plate alone. The last Bristol boat this winter also brought tin plate exclusively, but a much smaller cargo.

Kennebec.

E. C. Allen, the Augusta millionaire publisher, used to sell raspberries from a tin pail in the streets of that city. His various publications have 1,200,000 subscribers.

Miss Rebecca Farnham, of Albion, was stricken with apoplexy, Monday night. She was found by her nephew when he returned from school, in an unconscious condition and everything indicated that she was taken ill while at work. She never rallied but died Thursday. She leaves an aged mother ninety-three years old, who has survived all her children.

Knox.

Rev. W. A. Newcome, pastor of the Baptist church of Thomaston, was married, Wednesday evening, January 11th, to Miss Ida, the eldest daughter of the late Capt. Alfred Watts. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride by Rev. Mr. Roberts, of Rockland. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Newcomb went to the parsonage, where they will make their home.

This trip in the Alfred D. Snow was to have been Capt. Willey's last voyage in a large ship. A large schooner would have been built for him, the coming season, in the yard of Dunn and Elliot. Mr. John Lermond, who was carpenter of the ship and had been with Capt. Willey on previous voyages, also would have left the sea after this trip, and returned with his family to his place in Thomaston.

Among the enterprises to be adopted in Camden at an early day, is the opening of a broad turnpike from High street up between Mt. Battie and Mt. Megunticook, which will be one of the most romantic drives in Maine, and make eligible charming sites for villas and cottages similar to those at Bar Harbor.

One hundred thousand tons of ice is the estimate now made of the amount that will be harvested in "Lily Pond" in Camden by Gen. John D. Rust, manager of the Rockport Ice Company, and minor concerns. This pond is one-half mile from tide water. The ice is cut and hauled to the wharf and shipped direct to Southern ports after filling the immense ice houses. This pond has no visible inlet; is fed by springs, and the ice is said to be entirely free from bacteria. The ice is about twelve inches thick and clear as crystal. Gen. Rust has been in Portland the past week to engage vessels to commence his shipments at an early date.

Lincoln.

There will be something of a revival of shipbuilding at Waldoboro next season. A four-masted schooner of 1,800 or 2,000 tons burden will be built by Mr. Levitt Storer. The vessel will be largely owned by parties abroad.

Piscataquis.

On Wednesday of last week while the narrow gauge railroad was hauling some cars of pressed hay on flat cars, two of the loads caught fire from the sparks from the engine and the hay on them was all burned but the cars were saved.

Geo. A. Matthews, Esq., of Monson, and General Manager of the Monson Railroad, was on the ill-fated Portland train from Boston when the fearful accident occurred on the B. & M. road last week. He was in the car which was so badly crushed and where so many were killed. Mr. Mathews received somewhat severe injuries, though no bones were broken. While he has suffered considerably and does now, yet his physician and his friends hope that he is not very seriously injured. Since his return home he has been under the care of Dr. C. C. Hall, who has not yet permitted him to leave his room. His many friends are thankful that he escaped as fortunately as he did, and hope for his speedy recovery.

Sagadahoc.

About six o'clock Monday evening, the Bath stores lighted by electricity were suddenly left in darkness, as were also the streets. Fortunately nearly all the stores had gas or lamps at hand, and the darkness was only for a short time. The street lights were again started soon after seven o'clock, and at the same hour the incandescents shone forth. The sudden cutting off was a slight trouble at the station, caused by using in the boilers water which did not work very well at first.

Somerset.

A six-year-old son of William Decker, of Mercer, had a narrow escape from being killed last Tuesday. His father owns a vicious bull and the little fellow wanted to lead him into the barn. The brute became enraged and attacked the boy, inflicting a fearful gash in his abdomen requiring the assistance of a doctor, who took thirteen stitches to close the wound. At last accounts the boy was doing well.

Sumner Savage, of North New Portland, while driving a four-horse logging team on Sandy Stream, on a very rough road down a mountain was thrown under a load of logs that were dragging on a bob-sled. The logs rolled him some ten rods then dragged over him. He was severely injured. Surgical aid was called and it was thought his injury would not prove fatal.

Waldo.

Capt. Joseph Putnam, of Searsport, master of the Hattie McBuck, on her homeward voyage from Demerara to New York, was washed overboard in a gale, and with difficulty was rescued as he was sinking for the last time.

The report of the Waldo county treasurer gives the liabilities of the county as $18,631.69; resources, $11,004.34. The principal items of expense for the year included cost of prisoners at jail, $3,009.35; building jailer's residence, $3,820.52; steam heating apparatus at court house, $1,190.23. The whole number of prisoners committed in 1887 was 238, of whom but one was a woman.

Washington.

Jerry Campbell, Jr., of East Machias, returned home from the logging woods, Friday, with a broken leg.

The Machias Republican reports that Stephen D. Huntley, of East Machias, was arrested on complaint of a young man who charged him with waylaying and robbing him. Huntley was held in $500 bonds.

York.

As John Berry, of Cornish, was passing through a door, recently, he slipped and fell against a hook where the screen door had hung. The hook was driven into his side, cutting some two inches and catching under one of his ribs, making a bad wound.

The bodies of G. N. Cole, wife and child, who were killed in the railroad accident at Bradford, were brought to Kennebunkport for burial, Wednesday, and the funeral was held at the residence of Mrs. Cole's father, Mr. Woodbury Goodwin, Friday afternoon. Miss Lillie Wells, of this place, who was in the same car with the Cole family, sustained no serious injuries, and except two broken teeth and a general shaking up, escaped unhurt.

Italy will spend 30,000,000 francs in fitting up her navy this year.

Short Cuts.

In a contested will case spun out in a New York court, the stenographer's fees were nearly $3,000.

Judge Taft of the Supreme Court owns the first law book ever published, having been published shortly after William Caxton invented the system of printing from type centuries ago.

While hunting at Rambouillet, France, on Saturday, General Brugere was severely wounded in the hip by the accidental discharge of a keeper's gun. President Carnot was one of the hunting party.

Ex-President Grevy suffered a stroke of apoplexy last Monday. He has since been confined to his bed, and his physician has been visiting him twice daily. This is the second similar attack the ex-president has had.

Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, the neurologist, who is also a novelist, recently refused $500 offered him for an article, on learning that it was intended to float a page devoted to the advertisement of a proprietary medicine.

The peculiarity of the late Mme. Boucicaut, the great Parisian shopkeeper, was an asylum for old men. "There's nothing so helpless and in the way as an old man," she used to assert, "while an old woman can always keep out of [illegible]."

Norman B. Ream, the Chicago grain and stock speculator, is forty-three years old. All of his great successes have been made in the last ten years, and not a few of them in Wall street. Like many another millionaire, he started life as a clerk in a country store.

A fashion paper tells of a remarkable wedding in London recently, where the bride was attended by a lot of little girls clad in black velvet frocks, red stockings, black shoes, red cloaks, and red three-cornered hats, trimmed with black velvet, and carrying red bouquets tied with red and black ribbons.

Sutton, the desperate creature who was hanged in Oakland, Cal., last week, had a presentiment the day before his death that he was destined to win in a lottery. He bought two tickets, therefore, and gave them to certain friends who had shown him kindness in his last hours. The tickets did not pay him a cent.

Marion Crawford, the novelist, went to Rome to be present at the jubilee mass of the Pope on New Year's day, but fearing that he would not have a good opportunity to see the ceremonies he managed to dress himself like one of the Cantori, and succeeded in remaining with them undiscovered all through the ceremony.

There were lynched during the year 1887 in the United States no fewer than one hundred and twenty-three persons. Of the various States and Territories Texas leads the list with fifteen lynchings, and Mississippi is entitled to second place with fourteen to her credit. All the victims were males, eighty of them being negroes.

A Pittsburg company, it is announced, will undertake to supply Chicago with cheap fuel gas made from the soft coal found in almost inexhaustible quantities in Illinois and Indiana, within a short distance of Chicago. It is claimed the illuminant can be furnished to consumers at a cost of from thirty-five to fifty cents per one thousand feet.

At a dinner at the Mansion House, London, three foreign consuls were present whom the lord mayor wished to honor by drinking their health. He accordingly directed the toast-master to announce the health of the "three present consuls." He, however, mistaking the words, gave out the following: "The lord mayor drinks the health of the 3 per cent. consols."

Joseph Pulitzer, the editor and proprietor of "The World," started for California on Saturday, to secure needed rest. Overwork brought on partial blindness of the eyes. Mr. Pulitzer has been confined to the house and unable to use his eyes for six or seven weeks. He endeavored to carry on his necessary labors by the assistance of readers and amanuenses, but his physicians demanded that he take absolute rest, and he has gone to the Pacific Coast to secure it.

Millard Fillmore Brown, of Lynn, Mass., was born on December 17, 1887, and has already attained great fame. His claim to notoriety lies in the fact that when born he weighed only one pound and four ounces, and in the month which has elapsed since his birth has added only three ounces to his weight. The little chap is healthy and good-natured, and is likely to grow to manhood. He is only eleven inches tall, and a small finger-ring will go around his forearm as a bracelet. It is believed that he is the smallest baby in the world to-day.

Prince Chun, the father of the reigning Emperor of China, is not dead as was reported in the cable despatches some two weeks ago, but merely suffering from a passing indisposition due to a treatment of powdered otter's liver, to which he had been subjected by his native medical attendant. An English physician of the name of Dr. Munson, has now been summoned from Hong Kong, to take charge of the case of His Imperial Highness, this being the first occasion on which a foreign doctor has ever attended a member of the Imperial family of China.

Stocks of gold dust and gold coin are left uncalled for with Wells, Fargo & Co. at San Francisco. The manager recently said to a reporter: "Years ago an old fellow living up on the John Day River, in Oregon, sent us a big bag of gold. We stowed it away until the bag looked like a relic of the middle ages, and would scarcely hold together. Then we sent the bag of dust and nuggets over to the mint and got it transformed into $8,000. Eight years afterward, an old, bedraggled-looking fellow walked in, and said he guessed he had some money here. We asked him his name, and when he gave it we told him yes, he had, and asked him why he hadn't called long ago. Well, he said, he had sent it down in advance of his coming himself, and when he got here he didn't need it, and he went on to Australia, and finally around the world, and had only just now got back. We asked him why he hadn't taken it to the bank, saying that he could have got a good many thousand dollars' interest on it by this time. Yes, he said, he knew that; but the blanked banks might break, and he thought he would just leave it where it was."

Our Beneficent Game Laws.

Fish Commissioner Stanley said to a correspondent a few days since that hardly a day goes by but that he is in receipt of letters from parties living in different sections in Maine, and in Massachusetts, too, requesting copies of the fish and game laws of the State. "It is surprising, the interest manifested all over Maine, in our game and fish," says Mr. Stanley. "Every year I find that people who have held to the opinion that they ought to be allowed to hunt and fish without any restrictions whatever, and have claimed that it was nonsense for the State to enact laws for the protection of her fish and game, are disposed to take a most common sense view of the thing, and are manifesting a disposition to keep the laws. There has been less poaching in Maine the past year than in former years, and yet we have had altogether more of it than has been agreeable, in '87, just out."

Within the last three years, Mr. Stanley says the number of deer in this State has doubled. Caribou have largely increased within that time. Moose are not as plenty, of course, as are deer and caribou, but there is no doubt of a decided increase in the number of moose in this State, within a few years past.

This agreeable condition of things is regarded by Mr. Stanley and by many sportsmen throughout the State as entirely due to the protective game laws, more especially to the clause wherein it is stated this game is to be still hunted in October, November and December only. The transportation clause, so called, is regarded by Commissioner Stanley as one of the best protective acts of the law. "Before that transportation law was enacted," says the commissioner, "I have known an experienced hunter, with his dogs, to kill and market thirty deer in a season. They made lots of money out of it, and the deer grew scarce. The law now is very explicit that a man is entitled to three deer only in a season, and hence there isn't so much money in the business for the professional deer hunter, and for this reason, too, deer are on the increase in numbers in the State."

Mr. Stanley says that one reason, in his opinion, why moose are not more plenty in the Rangeley region is, from the fact that some of the Indian guides shoot them down in close time, during August and September. Some of the shrewdest of those guides have a sort of whistle, made from birch bark, with which they make a perfect representation of the cry of the female moose, thus attracting the males within shooting range.

Mr. Stanley says that deer and caribou are now so plenty in Maine that if the State should permit sportsmen to kill all they can by still hunt in the open months, there would be plenty of the game left for many years to come. The commissioner of fish and game significantly adds, however, in this connection, that a sportsman may consider himself lucky if he gets three deer in a season—the limit now fixed by law.

Commissioner Stanley regards the change in the game laws made by the last Legislature, whereby the whole penalty for killing any kind of game in the State in close time, goes into the county treasury, as somewhat detrimental to the strict enforcement of the law.

Says Mr. Stanley: "Our game wardens, as it is well known, before the law was amended, received half of the fine. The penalty for killing a moose in close time is $100. The complainant formerly received half of this sum, now he gets nothing. The penalty on caribou is $40, deer $40, partridge $10, and small game accordingly. The wardens haven't that stimulus to keep their eyes open day and night for poaching and poachers, because they don't get cash enough out of it. It doesn't hardly pay a warden to camp out in the wilderness in midwinter for $1.50 a day. Of course we have men who will stand by us now, but I think they are entitled to half the spoils."

Maine has sixty fish and game wardens.

Maine Custom Houses.

The Secretary of the Treasury has again modified his order relative to the force in Maine Custom Houses, so as to give two deputies in the Wiscasset District, one at Wiscasset and another at Boothbay, dropping the inspector at the latter place. In the Waldoboro District he gives four deputies and no other officers, and accompanies the order with directions to the collector to maintain customs facilities at Thomaston, St. George and Damariscotta, as well as at Rockland and Waldoboro. The collector says it is impossible to keep all these offices open without two more men.

In the Belfast District the Secretary gives a deputy at Belfast, one at Rockport, one at Vinalhaven (salary $100) and one at North Haven (salary $150). No deputy is allowed at Camden. The order was, however, amended so as to direct the collector to maintain customs facilities at Camden. The deputy was stationed at Rockport and the records transferred there at the request of the collector.

is a dangerous disease. From its tendency to extend to the throat, bronchial tubes, and finally to involve the lungs in consumptive disease, it should be promptly cured, that these grave dangers may be averted. So confident are the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy of their ability to cope successfully with this prevalent disease, that they have for years offered in good faith, $500 reward for a case of catarrh, no matter how bad or of how many years standing, which they cannot cure. Remedy only 50 cents, by druggists. jan17 d&w1w

"The teeter board of life goes up
The teeter-board of life goes down,"

Up and down, up and down—one day a millionaire, next day "dead broke"—one day buoyant in spirits, next day gloomy as a fog—one day in robust, perfect health, next day "laid up" with a bilious attack or some stomach trouble. Thus is the way the world wags nowadays. If you are bilious and look dizzy headed, dyspeptic, want of appetite or have torpid action of liver, kidneys or bowels, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets—purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, one a dose. jan17 d&w1w

Mrs. C[illegible], writes: I have [illegible] for sick headache [illegible] for the past fifteen years, [illegible] Little Liver Pills and [illegible] good than all the rest. jan19 d&w1w

Till the good news of the suffering—
A [illegible] remedy is near,
Which might have saved, had they known it,
[illegible].
Many who are under the ground
Tell of the "Favorite Prescription."
Sad hopeless women be glad—
Bear the good news to poor creatures,
Heart-sick, discouraged and sad.
"Female diseases," so terrible in their effects, and so prevalent among all classes, can be cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.
jan17 d&w1w

Do not suffer from sick headache a moment longer. It is not necessary. Carter's Little Liver Pills will cure you. Dose, one little pill. Small price. Small dose. Small pill. jan19 d&w1w

Have no equal as a prompt and positive cure for sick headache, biliousness, constipation, pain in the side, and all liver troubles. Carter's Little Liver Pills. Try them. jan19 d&w1w

"Time Tries all Things," and has proved that Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry is the remedy par excellence for the cure of coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, asthma, sore throat, and influenza. It cures coughs instanter, and even consumption yields to its magic influence. jan26 d&w1w

Purify Your Blood

Your blood may be full of impurities, but Hood's Sarsaparilla will thoroughly cleanse, enrich and vitalize it. The most severe cases of scrofula, salt rheum, etc., yield to Hood's Sarsaparilla. It also cures catarrh, rheumatism, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, kidney and liver complaints, sharpens the appetite and builds up the whole system. Give it a trial now.

"I suffered with catarrh fifteen years. Took Hood's Sarsaparilla and I am not troubled any with catarrh and my general health is much better than for years." J. W. Lillis, Postal Clerk Chicago & St. Louis Railroad.

That Tired Feeling

Hood's Sarsaparilla entirely removes that tired feeling and gives new life and strength [illegible] to the whole body. "I [illegible] Hood's Sarsaparilla [illegible] different person. The tired [illegible] feeling was gone, my appetite returned [illegible] up generally." [illegible], Mass.

"I was afflicted with dyspepsia twenty years. Previous to 1884 I found no relief, but grew worse, and at one time was most helpless. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me more good than all the other medicines I ever had." H. T. BARTLETT, Shirley Village, Mass.

People in Maine have lost a good deal of money by the failure of banks in the Provinces and they do object and seriously too ... otwithstanding THE WHIG's assertions to the contrary, to having it put in circulation here by the banks.—Commercial

THE WHIG said nothing about the circulation of Canadian money here What it did say was that the sensational account of the delight of the people of Calais at Deputy Collector Murphy's advent in that city, where it was alleged there was great dissatisfaction at the circulation of Canadian money was the work of an imaginative writer, because the people of that city differently situated from the people here have become so accustomed to the use of this money that nine times in ten they do not notice the difference The Commercial froths a good deal about THE WHIG's comments, but we notice that it does not undertake to correct the impression that the glowing account of what Deputy Murphy has done was written by Deputy Murphy himself, or the statement that when he attempts to sum up his case he admits that it is all a mere matter of speculation, however valid the charge may be, because he has no way of ascertaining the amount of Canadian money that may have been paid out by the bank, a somewhat essential feature if the tax is to be assessed The fact appears to be that Murphy has taken this way to advertise himself, as there was not the slightest occasion for this sky rocket performance if his only purpose was to call the attention of the Department at Washington to an alleged infraction of the law, in order to protect the people. As we said before the probability is that his sensation will quickly peter out having served the purpose of booming the Deputy Collector.

This will never do While the Commercial is commending the efficiency of the Democratic postal service the Democratic Montgomery (Ala.) Dispatch sends this significant message to the new Postmaster General "To Hon Don M Dickinson We salute you and with our greeting we feelingly exclaim Better mails"

Another evidence of the desperate character of the men who are backing the Democratic tally sheet forgers in Indianapolis came to light Monday when Justice Wood received an infernal machine. Suspecting its character, he turned it over to the police, who carefully cut off the lid and revealed its contents. It was shaped something like an ordinary slate pencil box In one end two gun cartridges filled with powder and shot were carefully stowed, with the lid of the box cut away to accommodate their rounded surfaces, each cartridge being also cut so as to expose the powder and make ignition a certainty Over and around these cartridges powder was plentifully besprinkled and resting against the shorter cartridge, and so folded as to present an inclined surface, was a piece of sandpaper Through the lid of the box, which slid into place, three holes were bored and the ends of three broken matches inserted Over these holes a strip of foolscap writing paper was carefully pasted, on which was written in neat clerical style "Judge W A Wood" The whole was wrapped in what seemed to be an ordinary official envelope taken from the county clerk's office, with the printed inscription scratched off There was sufficient powder in the box to have blinded the judge, in case of an explosion, no matter whether the shot took effect or not There is no clew to the sender There seems to be no end to Democratic villainy

The New York Democrats are said to be after the scalp of Postmaster Pearson and the New York World says

It is the only office of any prominence not controlled by the party of the majority in New York State The Democratic politicians do not hesitate to say that the only thing now wanting to make perfect the chain that will re-elect Mr Cleveland is the control of the New York post office Maurice J Power who was here three weeks ago expressed himself in the most vigorous manner recently, when the necessity of holding the New York post-office was suggested to him Since Col John R Fellows has become a great man in the party his frequent visits to Washington and his prolonged interviews with the President have more than convinced those who are looking for great changes in New York City politics during this year that Col Fellows would be not backward in recommending the substitution of a solid Democrat for Mr Pearson

What have the Mugwumps to say to this? It seems that the President has not only civil service reformed Republicans out and Democrats into every office of prominence in his own State but that Col Fellows the man the Mugwumps insisted the President did not know when he wrote his famous indorsement of "Tweed's old chum" is a frequent visitor at the White House where he has prolonged interviews with Mr Cleveland Surely they will no longer insist that the President is ignorant of Col Fellows character, for to do that would be to admit that the Mugwump sheets are not held as reliable in the White House This sad intimacy looks very much like a solid hitch up with the machine in the Empire State We sympathize with Curtis Godkin & Co, but current events would indicate that they have lost their supposed grip on the Administration It is sad but true.

The Battle Flags

A Washington despatch to the Chicago Inter Ocean says Congressman Boutelle of Maine being interviewed in regard to a statement published in the Chicago Herald that he intended to open war on ex Secretary Lincoln for ordering the captured flags boxed and stored said the report was unwarranted by anything that he had said and that he has never entertained any such intention While he believes the flags should be kept where they can be seen by all men as honorable and sacred trophies of loyal valor, and has no sympathy with the too prevalent disposition to obliterate the evidences of National triumph while the memorials in honor of rebellion and monuments of its leaders are multiplying all over the South yet he stated very distinctly that the mere change of the location of the flags in the War Department would prove no excuse for the attempt to surrender those precious emblems of patriotic devotion to the hands of those who bore them in assault upon the life of the Republic Mr Boutelle said it had been intimated that the present Administration were intending to plead the removal of the flags from the ordnance museum as some sort of justification of the proposal to send them South, which had shocked the entire loyal sentiment of the country, but such a plea will prove as futile as the other attempt to justify the proposed surrender of the flags to the Solid South because in a few instances banners belonging to loyal troops had been returned to those who bore them in defense of the Nation's life

Senator Ingalls Manuscripts

[Frank Carpenter in the New York World]

Senator Ingalls has now received full information regarding the burning of his house at Atchison, Kan and his loss is an irreparable one Twenty thousand dollars will hardly cover its actual money value and he loses a fortune in the burning of his books and papers His library comprised nearly six thousand volumes, and it was the half of his soul Its books were annotated with marginal notes and on their leaves were inscribed the thoughts of twenty five years I have looked over some of his volumes, and he has been in the habit of jotting down a bright comparison which occurred to him in his reading, of condensing a page into a sentence, and of writing, as he read, his assent or dissent to the subject matter in hand. In many of the books were notes which gave unwritten history and anecdotes of the public men mentioned within them, and throughout them all were scattered bright scintillations of Ingalls' which the public gets merely a taste of, in one of his great speeches

He had a full set of the proceedings of Congress for one hundred years back, and such a set is worth from $300 to $500 but Ingalls' set was worth more, for it was indexed and annotated and so arranged that in a moment he could put his hand on the debates upon any subject in our past He is a man who knows where to find things, and this library was to him like the pigeon holes of a lawyer He had all the standard works of modern and classical literature, and he has many rare copies, though he does not run to fine bindings He had rare engravings, too, each of which cost much money, and, more than all, he had manuscripts, diaries and journals which were worth more than their weight in gold He had notes for speeches and the outlines of magazine articles. He has kept almost as close a record of his intellectual life as did John Quincy Adams, and he has jotted down from time to time his conversations with statesmen and his knowledge of the great events of history during the past twenty-five years. He did this with an indefined idea that he would, after his retirement from political life, write a history of his times, and he had also autograph letters from the most noted statesmen of the past generation. Among these manuscripts—and they were very voluminous, and with Ingalls each note represents an idea—he had the manuscript of his novel, of which I have written before.

These all went in the flames, and the loss to the world is a real one

Mr. Ingalls feels this loss, and that much more than the money. But there is to a man of such broad sympathies, a still greater loss in the fire, and that is the loss of his home. It represented to him the sentiment of a life time. It was in this house he spent his honeymoon and here all of his children were born It was a small house at first, consisting only of four rooms, and a lean-to, and Ingalls paid $1,600 for it away back in the war times As the children came, he added room after room, and, one of his friends tells me a room for each child. He had eleven children, and the nine of these who still live are as sweet and as bright as any happy boys and girls in the United States

Thus the house grew by curious additions, until it comprised nineteen rooms, and these, curiously roofed, made a unique structure whose comforts and queerness were the talk of the Senator's friends This summer Mr Ingalls employed carpenters to unify it, and an architect planned an artistic roof for the whole and the house was to have been completed in October It was not done in November and at Christmas the Senator went home to examine it When at last it was finished, and before the Senator had a chance to use it it burned

It is hard to understand this queer old homestead of Mr Ingalls It was eighty feet long and fifty feet wide and it was situated on a bluff overlooking the Missouri, with a view as fine as that of Mount Vernon It was blocked ... and a wide porch ran around its side facing the river from which could be seen seven different counties and a number of large cities and the Missouri which is as wide as the Potomac winding along through them

The library was to Ingalls the dearest room in the house It was on the ground floor and its windows overlooked the Missouri. Its walls were lined with books and an open fireplace blazed out behind a brass fender through a high oak mantel richly colored by age and smoke Above the mantel hung a rare engraving of Personalls and upon the big cases were life-sized busts of Goethe and other poets and on each side of the mantel stood statuettes of Shakespeare and Byron Scattered about the room were mementos each of which called up pleasant thoughts to Ingalls, and the relics of a lifetime were there There were the first shoes of his children and on a box on the shelf at the side of the mantel were the playthings which one of his little boys now dead had left lying on the floor of the library when he played there for the last time and left the room for his bed never to rise There was a portrait of two of his children as in their first short dresses they were taken by the artist, and he lost ... things as a picture of his wife when she was a baby only two years old There were several portraits of himself painted when he was a younger man and here were water colors and paintings ... which he had gathered here and there There were numerous relics, such as a brick from John Brown's fort at Harper's Ferry a musket which he picked up on the field during Price's raid, fac similes of the Magna Charta and the death warrant of Charles I, which he had gotten from England per on ... from ... and Grant and a thousand other small things which intrinsically are worth so little, but which really are worth ... such to the owner

Nevertheless Ingalls puts on a brave face and he is ready to fight the battle of life as ever He is a man of more soul than the world would judge from his speeches, and his feelings are as tender as those of a child He has not been a money maker and he does not care for money save as a means to carry out ends He has never devoted himself to the saving or hoarding of money, nor has he been a speculator, and his home represented the greater part of his fortune

MAINE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE.

The Experiment Station and its Proposed Work.

AUGUSTA, Jan 19. The afternoon session of the Maine Board of Agriculture opened with an interesting discussion of the subject, "The Experiment Station and its Proposed Work," by President M. T. C. Fernald. In regard to the Hatch bill Mr. Fernald said that after a long time spent in discussing the matter the Hatch bill was passed, but unfortunately no appropriation as has since been determined, was made with the bill. The bill doesn't give the colleges a dollar for general purposes, but does provide for specific purposes. The acts of 1862 and 1887 were referred to as the salient points. The chief object of the Hatch bill was to aid agricultural research and experiment and the dissemination of results. He read clauses from the bill.

At the convention held Oct. 19 and 20th the general plan of administration was adopted. All appropriations should be used as specifically ordered in the bill. There was considerable discussion whether they could be used in a manner relating to analyses of fertilizers, etc. Experiments stations should be far enough from colleges that it can be seen readily that the use of its funds is in no way used concerning the college. Every department is to be organized with a head. The general idea is that the Directors should not be closely connected with the college.

After some further discussion the Board then adjourned.

ANNUAL MEETING AND DINNER

Bowdoin Alumni Association of Portland.

PORTLAND, Jan 19. The annual meeting and dinner of the Bowdoin Alumni association of Portland was held at the Falmouth Hotel to-night. There was a full attendance. The oration was delivered by Judge Symonds and the poem by Judge Goddard. Franklin C Payson acted as toastmaster and toasts were responded to by many members.

FROM PORTLAND

Organization of a Democratic Club.

PORTLAND, Jan. 19. The Democratic Reform Club was formed to-night with the following officers: President, Charles A. Stebbins; Vice Presidents, A. B. Russell, Robert Gould, Thomas J. Feeney, R. G. Rolfe; by, Samuel H. Libby, Frank D. Rogers, Leander Forbes, and one from each ward, Secretary, J. A. McGowan; Treasurer, L. Walker. Subordinate clubs will be formed in each ward in the city.

FIRE AT GREENVILLE.

Stores and Tenements Burned.

GREENVILLE, Jan. 19 The building owned by A. G. Shaw & Sons, containing two stores and four tenements, were destroyed by fire last night. The stores were occupied by Mark Peavey, merchant tailor, and Miss Young, fancy goods. Their stock and furniture were saved, also the furniture of the tenants. Loss on the building $2,000, insured.

FROM LEWISTON.

Bank Stock Escaping Taxation.

LEWISTON, Jan 19. Information has come from the Bank Examiners that about $50,000 worth of bank stock, on the assessed valuation, taxable in the Auburn National Bank for several years, had escaped taxation in consequence of an omission to return the real ownership to the assessors of Auburn, the stock having stood as the property of savings bank, as required by law, and therefore exempted from taxation. It is understood that arrangements have been made to pay the tax to the Auburn City Treasurer as soon as an investigation reveals just how many years the bank stock herein concerned has failed to pay the tax. The bank stock in question is part of the estate of a citizen of this county, now deceased, whose estate is now in process of settlement in our Probate Court. The amount of tax due the city of Auburn from this source is estimated to be several thousand dollars, perhaps $3,000, but the exact sum will be known in a few days.

A NATIVE OF BANGOR.

Death of General C. G. Atwood.

BOSTON, Jan. 19. General C. G. Atwood, President of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, of New York, died at West Roxbury at 9 o'clock this morning of apoplexy. He was born in Bangor, Me., in 1836, served with credit in the war of the Rebellion and has been a member of the Governor's staff.

FROM CAMDEN.

The New Custom House Order.

CAMDEN, Jan. 19. Collector Cushing, of Belfast, has received orders from the Department at Washington, removing the deputy collector's office from Camden to Rockport and also establishing a branch office at Camden, so that town will have two offices instead of one. Of late years business from foreign ports has increased at Rockport, so that more custom house business is now done at Rockport than Camden

FROM MACHIAS.

Dwelling House Burned.

MACHIAS, Jan. 19. A fire started at 4 this morning in the house of Henry Phinney, about destroying the main building. A foot of snow fell yesterday and last night was piled in drifts. The firemen worked under great hardships and good work was done in saving the eastern section of the village. Loss $1,500; insured in the Bangor Mutual.

TRAIN ROBBERS CAUGHT.

An Attempt which did not Succeed.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 19. An attempt was made to rob a Wabash train last night near Missouri City. The train was flagged and the engineer ordered out of his cab. The officials, however, had information of the attempt and were prepared. A volley from a shot gun met the robbers and the leader and several others were shot down. Several were captured.

Telegrams to General Manager Hayes say that all the would-be robbers have been captured. Three were overtaken by a posse, the fourth, Harney Sweeney, the leader, who stopped the train, received a heavy load of shot in the breast from the guard, a man in the engine cab and was found in the woods where he had crawled after being wounded.

ANOTHER RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

Two Persons Die of their Injuries.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 19. It is reported here that an accident occurred on the Air Line Road yesterday afternoon between Huntingburg and Jasper. Two passenger coaches were thrown from the track and a number of passengers injured, two of whom have since died. The engineer and fireman are reported to be badly injured.

The President Dines the Diplomatic Corps.

This second of the series of state dinners given by the President to the Diplomatic corps occurred to-day.

FIFTIETH CONGRESS—First Session.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. Mr. Hale, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported back the delayed deficiency bill, and stated that the amendments reported by the Committee were but few in numbers and that he would ask the Senate to pass the bill next Monday.

After agreeing that the adjournment today shall be till Monday the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business.

Mr. Hoar introduced a bill to grant a service pension to all survivors of the late war at the rate of one cent for each day's service, in addition to any pension granted for disability.

The Senate continued the consideration of executive business until 4.30 P. M., when it adjourned until Monday.

House.

The joint resolution accepting the invitation to the United States to participate in the Melbourne exposition was passed.

A joint resolution accepting the invitation to the United States to participate in the Melbourne exposition was passed, and $50,000 appropriated to defray expenses.

Mr. Belmont introduced a joint resolution accepting the invitation of the French Republic to take part in the International Exposition in Paris, in 1889, appointing nine commissioners and appropriating $200,000; referred.

Mr. Foran, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported the invalid pension appropriation bill; referred to the Committee of the Whole.

Then the struggle over the Wilkins banking bill was resumed and the House decided, 124 to 76, to consider the bill. Pillsbury motions were submitted, and at 2.30 the House took a recess till three o'clock.

After recess, in pursuance of the previous order, ceremony of the presentation by the State of Massachusetts to the House of portraits of Theodore Sedgwick, Joseph B. Varnum, and Nathaniel P. Banks, distinguished citizens of Massachusetts, who have occupied the Speaker's chair, was proceeded with. The portraits, handsomely framed, were ranged side by side, in front of the Clerk's desk and entered into committee.

Mr. Long, of Massachusetts, said that, in April, 1880, the Massachusetts Legislature adopted a resolution authorizing the Governor to have painted the portraits of ex-Speakers Sedgwick, Varnum and Banks, for presentation to the House, to take the place of the poor portraits now in the lobby, and to correspond with the handsome picture of Gov. Winthrop already there.

He trusted that other States, following the example of Massachusetts, would array beside those worthy pictures of distinguished sons who had held the same high office and who deserved, as Massachusetts thought her sons deserved, some more enduring and artistic memorials than these which hang in the adjoining lobby. The names and services of these men, continued Mr. Long, were not limited to the districts from which they came, in the historic Commonwealth of Massachusetts, but are here associated with her common glory—hers as she stands, as she has stood, as she will stand, as a part of this Union, which, under her construction of its Constitution, has been tried indeed, but not found wanting in power to preserve its own integrity, establish justice, ensure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, secure the blessings of liberty for ourselves and our posterity.

Here, too, proud mother as she is of so many other statesmen, soldiers, orators, poets and patriots who have loved, honored and served their country. Could you, sir, like Virgil in Rome, cross the stream and walk Elysian fields, as I can sure you will, though I pray it may be a late day, alike for you and him whose place you are occupying, should you visit those fields you would there see the ghosts of Massachusetts, Sam Adams, John Otis, Quincy, Hancock, Warren, his patriotic blood spurting hot from his gaping wounds; the swarthy, mighty brow of Webster bent over the open pages of the Constitution; nervous Choate, the classic poise of Everett; Longfellow, dreaming; of, Banks, of Charles Emerson Sumner, Phillips, with his calm, in measureless scorn of injustice waiting arm to arm with the fiery Adams, with the Greek of Troien helmets on their heads, but in their hands the broken shackles of the slave and the olive branches of restored peace and union to this country, only shadows, it may be truly said by figure such as is mute, indeed, but forever eloquent. (Applause.)

Mr. Rockwell, of Massachusetts, in an eloquent biographical sketch reviewed ex-Speaker Sedgwick's public life and valuable services.

Mr. Allen, of Massachusetts, sketched the public life of ex-Speaker Varnum.

Mr. Collins, of Massachusetts, eulogized ex-Speaker Robert C. Winthrop. (Applause.)

Mr. Hayden, of Massachusetts, recalled the memorable scenes attending the elevation of Nathaniel P. Banks to the Speaker's chair.

Mr. Lodge, of Massachusetts, in an eloquent speech reviewed Mr. Winthrop's career as a private citizen since he left public life.

Mr. Randall, of Pennsylvania, accepted, in behalf of the House, the portraits tendered and said Massachusetts was affluent in her list of illustrious men, but Governor Banks to his mind was a typical American. Gov. Banks in the discharge of the duties and his whole career has been an example which taught us of the strength of our government, and showed to every American youth that by industry, perseverance, energy and honesty he could occupy almost any station of honor. He then offered a resolution of acceptance.

Mr. Breckenridge, of Kentucky, seconded the resolution. His eulogized Speaker Carlisle, and spoke of the wonderful progress of the country since Mr. Sedgwick's birth. Speaking of the impression Massachusetts has made on the history of the country, he said that from 1830 to 1875 she had "American ideas" with skill and eloquence, power and force never surpassed, in the leadership of the great Republic. (Applause.) He paid a tribute to Mr. Randall, whose name, he said, honored the Hall of Speakers, by solace.

The resolution was then adopted, and the House, at 4.30, adjourned.

TOTAL LOSS OF A GLOUCESTER FISHING VESSEL.

The Crew of Fifteen Men Escape in Dories.

GLOUCESTER, Jan. 19. The schooner Sylvester, Capt. Edward Cattillon, of this port, engaged in the market fisheries while trying to make the cape during the blinding storm last evening, struck the Londoner, a sunken ledge about one-half mile outside Thatcher's Island. She immediately filled, and the crew 15 in number, took to the dories and landed safely on the Back side of Eastern point. One of the dories made a landing near the summer settlement at Bass rocks, and the others near the lighthouse at a point called High Popples. The schooner was owned by Captain Cattillon, and was built in Chelsea in 1870. She was 96 85/100 tons burden, new tonnage, and is believed to be partially insured. She will be a total loss.

In an interview with Capt. Cattillon of the lost schooner, he said that he fished 15 miles east from Thatcher's Island and while running for a harbor last night a dense snow storm set in and the fog whistle on Thatcher's could not be heard. A man was stationed on the main rigging to keep the lead going, with orders to report when he got 15 fathoms. All at once the lookout reported breakers ahead. The wheel was put hard down, but before coming around the vessel struck. The crew took to the dories, as the sea took a clean sweep over the vessel and swept everything away. With great difficulty the crew succeeded in landing, but lost all their clothes.

This morning the scene of the vessel was visited. Scarcely a trace of the vessel could be seen and she will be a total loss, together with the 7,000 pounds of haddock which was on board. The place where the disaster happened is one of the worst on the coast and vessels that go ashore there are generally a total loss. The last to Capt. Cattillon is a severe one as he had not been on the insurance, which was only $1,800, in the Boylston Insurance Company, of Boston.

Business Items.

NASAL CATARRH is a dangerous disease. From its tendency to extend to the throat, bronchial tubes, and finally to involve the lungs in consumptive disease, it should be promptly cured; these grave dangers may also be averted. So confident are the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy of their ability to cope successfully with this prevalent disease, that they have for years offered a good reward for any case of catarrh, no matter how bad or of how many years standing, which they cannot cure. Remedy only 50 cents, by druggists. jan17 d&wlw

The tooter-board of life goes down.

Up it comes, up and down—one day a millionaire, next day a "dead broke," one day buoyant in spirits, next day gloomy as a fog—one day in seeming perfect health, next day "laid out" with a bilious attack, or stomach ache, or a stroke. This is the way the world wags these days. If you are bilious, melancholic, dizzy headed, dyspeptic, want of appetite or have torpid action of liver, kidneys or bowels, you have a sufficient dose of Ayer's Pills—purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, one a dose. jan17 d&wlw

Mrs. Chas. Smith of Jimes, Ohio, writes: I have used every remedy for sick headache I could hear of for the past fifteen years, but Carter's Little Liver Pills did me more good than all the rest. jan18 d&wlw

"Time Tries all Things," and has proved that Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry is the remedy par excellence for the cure of coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, asthma, sore throat, and influenza. It cures coughs instantly, and gives consumptive patients the relief that is sought for. jan18 d&wlw

LOCAL MATTERS

There has been quite a little drop in the price of wire nails recently, owing to the over production.

A series of revival meetings are being held at Sandy Point and they are being conducted by Rev. E. A Harlow, of the Maine Missionary Society. Much interest is being manifested, and excellent results will undoubtedly come from the meetings.

The Public Library will from this time on be open continuously from nine o'clock in the morning to nine in the evening. This arrangement will prove very convenient to many who are unable to come to the library except at noon and will be much appreciated.

The young ladies who have been attending the course of assemblies given in Andrews' Hall, will give a leap year ball this evening to their gentlemen friends. Refreshments will be served during the evening. Arrangements have been made for a very pleasant time.

They had about a foot of snow at Greenville from the storm of Thursday, and it was about the same all through the northern part of the State. It was not needed so much, however, in that section as it was in this vicinity, where there has been sleighing only in the city.

The hackmen are meeting with good success in selling the tickets for their second annual ball which will occur on February 13th in Norombega Hall, and in the prominent places in many of the stores and offices of our business men, the flaming hue of the tickets can be seen.

Massasoit Commandery, Patriarchs Militant, of Boston, will soon give a recept on and ball and all of the prominent officials in this State have received invitations to attend the affair, which will be a very elegant one. It is possible that some of the Patriarchs from this city may attend.

Twelve young ladies of this city have formed a cooking club and held their first meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss Jeanie Blaisdell. Meetings will be held every week and several entertainments may be given during the winter. These will no doubt prove very enjoyable occasions.

Some persons are making themselves very obnoxious in the suburban districts by breaking into the school rooms and stealing towels, napkins, knives and forks, which the teachers use at their noon lunch. These petty thefts are contemptible acts and the offenders will be harshly dealt with if they are found out.

The electric light men have just put fourteen incandescent lights into the armory of the Hamlin Rifles. The greater part of the lights are in the drill hall and the remainder are scattered in the anteroom. They have also just put two incandescents into the windows of Mr. H. W. Durgin on Main street.

The new Presque Isle National Bank has started in very prosperously and is having an excellent business to begin upon. The deposits on the opening day were $10,000 and large amounts have been deposited since. The banking rooms are in the company's new brick block and are very handsomely and conveniently fitted up.

Messrs. Reed & Foss, of Garland, have a contract to make 14,000 cases for shipping canned corn. Most of them are for J. H. Hamilton, who does a large business in that line. They are also turning out a large quantity of caskets in the rough for Folsom & Oak, of Skowhegan, who finish them up. The firm is doing a good business.

An inventive New Brunswick genius, whose experience has doubtless extended this side of that Province, a few days since while being shaved, startled the barber with the suggestion that he had better purchase a tack hammer to the handle of his razor. "What for?" inquired the barber. "So you can hammer in those hairs you can't pull out." The barber is thinking over it.

A painting in the windows of Marston & Gorham's art store on State street attracts much attention from passers by. It represents a fisherman standing upon the beach with an oar in one hand and a net in the other. The representation is very realistic and the execution very skillful. It is the work of a New York artist and has been purchased by Mrs. Richardson, of C[illegible]

The following list of patents issued to Maine inventors for the week ending Tuesday, January 17th, 1888, is reported for us by Mr. P. W. J. Lander, solicitor of patents: Eldridge F. Rubin, Lewiston, water motor; James W. Holt and A. McQuillan, Skowhegan, machine for burring and speckling clocks. Whole number for the week—patents, 304; designs, 3; trademarks, 15; labels, 5; reissues, 1; total, 328

Much interest in the salmon fishing of next season is already being shown and a number of applications for membership have been made to the officials of the club. Mr. H. H. Gerrish is having orders for fishing rods to be made during the winter for use next season at the salmon pool, and when the right time arrives an unusually large number of fishermen will be seen at the pool below the Water Works, whipping the water for a rise.

SORRENTO. At Sorrento business is quite lively and the outlook for the place is very promising. Five houses are now being erected there and several more will soon be begun. Among the prominent people who have purchased lots there with the intention of building are Judge Penrose, Mrs. Jane Biddle and Mr. Camac of Philadelphia; ex-Senator Gerard and T. Musgrave, of New York; besides many Bostonians; Mrs. Cochrane, of Yonkers, N. Y., and Isaac Lawrence have purchased cottages there. John J. Pratt, agent for the company, has recently returned from Philadelphia, where he sold several lots.

THE ICE FIELDS. The ice men were engaged yesterday in scraping off the snow from their fields which fell on Wednesday. It was easily taken off, as it was very light and had not become hardened down. Messrs. E. & J. K. Stetson have completed their season's work and are the first firm to do so. They finished Wednesday night and have harvested 7,000 tons, filling their houses well up. Their crew went to the Union Ice Company's field yesterday and began work. This company will not cut a very large amount as there is quite an amount that was left over from last year. H. & H. Rollins have begun scraping again and will begin cutting at once. They intend to fill up their large house, which is empty. All of two companies are doing their best to cut the most ice possible and improve the present favorable conditions.

SUDDEN DEATH. Mr. Emerson Dowse, of this city, died very suddenly early yesterday morning. When his wife awoke she found her husband dead, but as the body was not cold not much time had elapsed since his decease. A physician was immediately called and upon examination heart disease was pronounced to be the cause of his death. Mr. Dowse was a cabinet maker, and has been in the employ of the G. W. Merrill Furniture Company. He appeared to be in good health the night before, and no suspicion was entertained of the sudden occurrence. Mr. Dowse resided at the corner of Penn and Garland streets, and was sixty-five years of age at the time of his death. He leaves a widow and daughter, the latter being the wife of Mr. R. J. Cushing, the jeweler. The funeral services will be held to-morrow forenoon, at ten o'clock, from the late residence

THE WEEKLY COURIER is again out and contains the usual interesting reading matter. Among its articles are to be found the following: The Great Western Blizzard; the Bradford disaster; Maine Board of Agriculture; Patrons of Husbandry; The Battle Flags; resolution on the death of Governor Bodwell; editorials on the leading questions of the day; the latest by telegraph; decisions in law; the Bodwell Water Power Company; letters from correspondents; continuation of the Christmas story by Robert Louis Stevenson, "The Misadventures of John Nicholson"; latest proceedings of Congress; the Republican Club; the Cattle Commission; stock and marine reports; obituary of Hon. Jonathan L. Boynton; Supreme Judicial Court proceedings; Penobscot Farmers' Club; agricultural news; Grange meetings; locals, etc. Copies in wrappers for mailing may be obtained at the counting room.

PLEASANT ENTERTAINMENT. A very pleasant entertainment was given last evening in the vestry of the Union Street Methodist church, and the attendance of the members of the society and their friends was large. From six to seven o'clock an oyster supper was served, and many sat down to the neat tables which were very efficiently waited upon by young lady waiters, who cared for the wants of the guests most ably. At 7.30 o'clock the entertainment began and the following was the programme: Song, "The River of Life," Mrs. N. E. Bragg; reading, Mrs. F. H. Chase; song and chorus, Mrs. Chase, Miss Jewell, Mr. Royal, and Mr. Kelliher; reading, Miss Kidder; song, "A Mother's Lullaby," Mrs. Chase; duet, Mrs. Chase and Mr. Kelliher. The hearty applause that followed each selection showed that the whole programme was much appreciated and enjoyed, and the manner in which they were rendered certainly merited it. After the entertainment, refreshments were again served. The occasion was very successful both socially and financially.

AMUSEMENTS.

The World.

There has been a large sale of seats for the performances of "The World" to-night and to-morrow night at the Opera House, and a fine presentation of this popular play is looked for. The Omaha Bee says: Wonderful, sublime, beautiful, startling were a few of the many expressions overheard issuing from the lips of a number of the immense audience coming from Boyd's Opera House last evening after the performance of "The World." The barber scene was realistic, the tenement house pleasing, the deck scene was imposing and at the conclusion we rise involuntarily from our seats in amazement as we actually witness the horror of a sinking ship in mid-ocean and watch the angry waves eager to engulf it. At the conclusion of this truly wonderful piece of stage mechanism we looked at each other, and for a moment there was the silence of death, then one mighty roused up applause at this perfection of stage machinery; the rain scene was grand; in this we see the castaways lashed to a raft rait and tossed about by the waves; already the horror of the situation has unmercifully served one of the occupants of raison, and as it appears but a ship hails up from windward and rescues the sufferers. The garden scene, the lunatic asylum; the, revolving scene, the panorama; and hotel parlor, each, and all realistic; in fact we may say that never before has such a great amount of scenery been seen upon our stage.

Gilbert and Sullivan Comedy.

Of the Gilbert Opera Company which will appear here each evening next week the Portland Evening Express says:

The Gilbert Opera Company commenced their engagement here yesterday afternoon in Gilbert & Sullivan's charming little opera "Iolanthe." There was a large audience for a matinee and those fortunate enough to obtain seats, were greeted with as fine a musical treat as has been our pleasure to witness from before the footlights in this city for a long time. It would be invidious for us to speak individually of the different parts, all were so well sustained. The piece was finely staged and costumed.

INTERESTING LECTURE.

Last Evening an Audience Completely Overflowing the Rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association Listened to a Lecture on "The A. B. C. of Government," by Rev. A. W. Anthony, which proved highly interesting and gave much information on the subject selected. Rev. Mr. Anthony began by referring to the desirability of one knowing just what is going on around us and what our own government is, before we attempt to become intelligent with other forms of government. There is government because men are gregarious and because men are inclined to do unto-towards one another. The patient conformity to society that all must experience when brought into relation with other men was set forth by the speaker, and the necessity of law explained. The most essential thing for good government is good character among the citizens, and the good citizen should first be wise and just and then act wisely and justly. Three forms of government are possible—first, the prescribed and administered by one person; second, by a few persons, and third by all the people. The first is despotic, the second "oligarchic or" and the third "popular." The latter is undoubtedly the best form.

England is a strange mixture of republicanism and oligarchic government. In a free government there must be limits to the exercise of freedom, and the suffrage must not be promiscuous. It is plain that although all men may by voting, appoint what they wish should prevail in government, yet all cannot leave their occupations, or their wishes must be delegated to representatives. Our government is divided into the Legislative, Judicial and Executive branches. The Legislative branch is termed Congress, the Judicial, the Supreme Court, the Executive, the President.

Political parties are an inherent feature in the underlying principles of our national government. According to the nature of mankind, there are always three parties wherever they are called. They are the conservative party, the radical party and the independent party, called from time to time by different names. The first class is slow to change, the second jealous, impulsive and progressive, and the third will be found between the two, voting independently according to what or deliberate judgment.

Parties are necessary because they bring public issues before the people. They are public conductors for they agitate thoroughly at every election the public mind. Politics, even in a party sense, is not a thing to be afraid of and every good man should touch his political party at its most vital point, namely, the primary meeting and caucus. A party has duties to the country and it is the duty of a minority to strive to become a majority, for thus, if its principles are worth anything, it will be striving to bring them to the front. A minority should always criticise fairly and justly a majority, and thus by keeping a restraint upon the arrest of the majority avail much for the country. The great end of government is not to support this or that party, but to fulfill the word of God spoken by the prophet Micah 2,600 years ago, "To do justly and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God."

INTERESTING SKETCH

Of a Lady Who Lived a Century and Over—The First Steamboat.

A despatch from Bradford, Vt. yesterday, says:

Mrs. Mary Mann, widow of Nathaniel Mann, who died at Orford, N. H., this morning, lived 102 years and two months. She was a daughter of Jonathan Mason, one of the early settlers of Lyme, N. H. She died at her daughter's, Mrs. Mary Wilcox, widow of the Hon. Leonard Wilcox, formerly a judge of the Supreme Court of New Hampshire. Mrs. Mann distinctly remembered Capt. Morey's first steamboat on the Connecticut river, years before Robert Fulton launched his vessel on the Hudson. On her wedding tour, when only 15, she took a ride on Capt. Morey's steam dugout years before Fulton claimed the invention.

Mrs. Mann was the mother of Mrs. Mary Wilcox, widow of Hon. Leonard Wilcox, formerly Judge of the Supreme Court and also United States Senator from New Hampshire, and brother of Mrs. Robert Perkins, Mrs. Leonard Gay and Mrs. William Flowers, of this city. Capt. Flowers relates that on a visit to Orford, fifteen years ago, Mrs. Mann, then eighty-seven years of age, gave him a full account of the steamer invented by Captain Samuel Morey, who steamed up in his little craft on the Orford side of the Connecticut river on the day of her marriage, and took the bridal party down the river and back in safety. To Capt. Morey belonged the honor of the invention of steamboats. By request he went to New York to confer with Robert Fulton years before Fulton made his first trip in 1807, by steamer up the North, or Hudson river. Mrs. Mann in relating these circumstances was as vivacious and bright as a lady of forty years, and prided herself on making the first bridal trip by steamer in 1835.

The Republican Club.

An adjourned meeting of the Republican Club was held last evening at 7.30 o'clock in the Common Council Room, City Hall, for the purpose of completing the organization, and the selection of the various committees. There was a good attendance of the members of the club and as usual much interest was manifested. The meeting was called to order by President D. A. Robinson, who after the reading of the minutes of the last meeting made some appropriate remarks relating to the party and the club officers and containing some good advice for the future proceedings.

The following standing committees were then announced by the President:

National Committee—D. F. Davis, J. L. Cutler, F. O. Beal.

State Committee—S. C. Hatch, H. N. Fairbanks, J. W. Dongan.

City and County Committee—B. B. Thatcher, J. M. C. Arnold, M. G. Trask, Job Collett, C. H. Rice.

Finance Committee—F. H. Curran, C. I. Collamore, S. E. Dean.

Library and Publications Committee—C. E. Field, J. F. Foster, Victor Ernst.

House Committee—A. G. Hanson, G. W. Sa[illegible]son, H. G. Thompson.

Twenty-six new names were proposed for membership, and accepted by the Club, making 127 members of the organization up to the present date. The matter of obtaining a room for the meetings of the Club was referred to the House Committee. The meeting then adjourned.

MAINE HOTEL PROPRIETORS.

Semi-Annual Meeting of the Association in this City.

The semi-annual meeting of the Maine Hotel Proprietors' Association was held in this city yesterday afternoon and evening in the Aldermen's Room, City Hall. Representatives were present from all parts of the State, about fifty in all being in attendance.

The exercises of the afternoon began with an address by President J. M. Taylor of Bath, who spoke at some length setting forth the objects of the Association, the purposes for which it met on yesterday, and its field of usefulness. The report of the Secretary and Treasurer, William H. McDonald, of Woodfords, was read and accepted. Thirty-two applications for membership were received, accepted and voted in as follows: F. L. Thurlett, Vaneeboro House, Vaneeboro; Herbert E. Thompson, W. Chester McConnell and James P. Randall, Penobscot Exchange, Bangor; Edgar E. Young, Bangor House, Bangor; Frank W. Durgin, Windsor Hotel, Bangor, W. D. McGregor, Chamberlain House, North Bridgton; J. M. Snow, Pemberton House, Bluehill; Randolph Young, Exchange, Lewiston, Abram T. Fish, Elm House, Carmel; P. Murphy, Murphy Hotel, West Forks; Jerry Shannon, Shannon's House, Bath, Charles D. Shaw, Ellsworth House, Moosehead Lake; Joseph B. Hopkins, Ocean View, Winterhaven; Thomas Young, Exchange, Orono; E. E. Stoddard, Eastern Hotel, Machias; C. H. Merrill, Midway House, Moosehead; George M. Sargent and W. H. Ballard, DeWitt House, Lewiston; Wm. M. Shaw, Androscos House, South Paris; Joseph E. Durrow, Magnolia House, Camden; O. A. Kneeland, Sebago Lake House, Sebago Lake; B. J. Smith, Vaughn House, Caribou; Clayton D. Dresser, Ocean House, Cape Elizabeth; Blod E. Tripp, Ocean House, Wells; A. C. Spooner, Dexter House, Dexter; Dexter Sanborn, Maine Hotel, Damariscotta; N. S. Baker, The Hillhurst, Norfolk, Conn; Wm. F. Blanding, Industrial Journal, Bangor; James Babcock, Penobscot House, Lincoln; Alonzo Adams, Stage House, Bingham; Wm. M. Shaw, Shaw House, Buxton.

The remainder of the afternoon was occupied in discussions regarding the best manner of rendering a hotel thoroughly to the temperance question, treatment of guests, prices, economy, etc. and remarks were made by most of those present.

The evening session was begun in the same place at about eight o'clock, and the discussions of the afternoon, with others of importance were carried on and thoroughly gone over. Much enthusiasm was manifested and the association is in a prosperous condition.

At a late hour a final adjournment was made to the first Thursday in March for the annual meeting in this city.

While in this city the visitors have been the guests of all of the principal hotels, where their brother landlords have given them the best of entertainment. Nearly all of them will return to their respective homes to-day.

Municipal Court.

Thursday, January 18.

Peter Boyle, of Waterville, drunkenness, $3 and costs. Paid.

Daniel Weirs, of P. E. I., same offence, same sentence. Committed.

Yesterday was a bracing winter day and the fresh air had an exhilirating effect. The wind which prevailed during the day blew the light snow hither and thither in people's faces, at intervals, but on the whole it was a pleasant day. The stage drivers report that there were some drifts piled up on the country roads but not any of great consequence. The Western train was forty-five minutes late.

THE ALDEBARAN SPIRIT.

All ye who seek the golden clime,
Go, mount with Death his caravan
So sang of old the rhythmic clan,
The bards whose numbers rang sublime—
Ah, now, methinks, some truer chime
Must charm us through life's little span;
Once more we'll read thy lofty rhyme,
O wise, O true, Aldebaran!

Full well we learn'd, and long ago,
Thy truth that from eternity
What hath endured that still shall be,
And that alone—'tis even so!
Eternal forces deathless reign,
We work with them, or work in vain.
—Samuel Waddington in The Academy.

FERRETS FOR NEW ZEALAND.

The Little Animals Needed on Account of the Rabbit Pest—Another Order.

Mr Cross, the well known naturalist of Liverpool, who is up in London looking after the gorilla that he has just sold to the "Zoo," paid a call to Northumberland street the other day to report on the animal kingdom, of which he is undisputed lord.

"The last new thing," said Mr Cross, "is the sailing of the ferrets; 130 of them have just gone off, and with them 750 pigeons, 10 sacks of biscuits and 375 tins of Nestle's milk. I bought the milk for them myself."

"But what are the pigeons for?"

"That I will explain to you. The ferrets are for the rabbits and the pigeons are for the ferrets. They will eat up the 750 pigeons on their voyage to New Zealand. They will also consume the biscuits and the milk. Then I have sent sacks upon sacks of hay to make bedding for the ferrets, and plenty of Indian corn to feed up the pigeons. It was quite a sight, four big carts and two whole railway trucks were taken up with this consignment. Two men accompanied the ferrets, and very hard work they have looking after both them and the pigeons. But then, as I told them, the further they get from England the fewer pigeons there will be from day to day."

"And what are the ferrets sailing for?"

"They are a consignment to a large wool farmer in New Zealand. The rabbit pest, as you know, has now broken out very bad there. The Australians, I see, are going to have a rabbit pest conference but this New Zealand wool merchant thought he had better send to Mr Cross, and Mr Cross is going to send him 120 ferrets. They won't make much headway, you say, against the rabbits. But then they breed so fast, and if none of them are lost on the voyage in a few months' time my client ought to have six or seven hundred of them at least. 'Don't spare the expense' he said to me. The rabbits are eating up all the pasture on which his sheep ought to be feeding, and unless he can get them under he will be a ruined man. By the next mail I am going to send the same customer a consignment of stoats and weasels. They are wonderfully tough customers, are stoats, they will bleed the rabbits to death in no time.

"Curiously enough," added Mr Cross, "at the very same time that I received these orders for means of destroying the rabbits in New Zealand I received also a large order for rabbits, and I am now hard at work getting together 2,000 of them as quickly as I can. They are going to British Columbia, where they have not got any rabbits. I am sending 2 000 of them—1,500 does and 500 bucks. This is a pretty large business also. They will want a hundred sacks of oats at least for the voyage, besides plenty of hay, straw and sawdust."—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Siberian Traveler's Investigations.

Mr George Kennan, the Siberian traveler and writer, has been black listed by the Russian government, and will not be permitted to re-enter the czar's dominions. "I expected, of course" says Mr Kennan, "to be put on the Russian black list. I am only thankful that I succeeded in crossing the frontier with all of my material and papers coming this way. The outside of the Russian frontier is a good enough side for me at present. I became satisfied before I got half through Siberia that I should never be permitted to go there again, and that after the publication of my papers no other foreigner would be allowed to make investigations there, and I lost no possible opportunity to secure accuracy and thoroughness. I brought back more than fifty pounds of notes, papers and original documents, many of the latter from secret government archives, besides 600 or 600 foolscap pages of manuscript prepared for me by political exiles in all parts of Siberia, and covering the most noteworthy episodes in their lives. I visited every convict mine in Siberia and every convict prison except one, and I believe I know the exile system better than most officers of the exile administration, and far better than any outsider. I can regard the black listing, therefore, with a certain degree of complacency. The stable door is locked, but the horse has been stolen—and I've got him."—Boston Transcript.

A Wild West Chieftain.

Red Shirt, Cody says, is the best Indian he ever had anything to do with. He is high minded honorable, and particularly tractable and affectionate. He is always cool and very quiet, yet he is a very rigid disciplinarian. He has killed at six different times men of his tribe in the west who refused to obey him. Last summer one of the Indians caused the police a great deal of annoyance by crossing the bridge over to the American exhibition side for the purpose of talking with some of the bazar girls. Repeated fines would not check him. He was fined so much that his pay for the season was down to about a pound. Then Red Shirt was appealed to to use his authority. Red Shirt walked up to the disobedient Indian, and without raising his voice at all he said in his smiling, gentle way: "You are a bad Indian. You have been requested by Col. Cody and myself to not cross this bridge. Now I have come to tell you one thing: If you ever cross that bridge again without permission I will kill you." With this Red Shirt stalked away. From that day forward this bad Indian never even went near the end of the bridge.—London Letter.

The Mysterious New Gun.

Mrs. Crawford writes: "I may mention that some days ago I was shown the bullet of the new Lebel gun. There can be no harm in describing its appearance, since in the event of a war these missiles would be the first thing to fall, or rather to fly, into the enemy's hands. Besides, the Germans are known to have stolen a few at Belfort. In shape it is conical but the tip is slightly flattened. It is a trifle under one-third of an inch in diameter and somewhat over one inch in length. The bullet is made of a shell of German silver, about one-twentieth of an inch in thickness, filled in with an alloy of lead hardened with antimony."—Paris Cor London News.

The Congressional Library

The congressional library at Washington will cover 111 000 square feet—more than two and one-half acres. Mr Smithmeyer, to whom the library has been intrusted, has carried on elaborate tests of the resisting power of the soil on which it will stand. The German parliament house covers 110,000 square feet, the Royal library at Munich 99,000, and the library of the British museum 97,000.—Chicago Herald.

She Loved the Flag.

GRAPHIC RECITAL OF A BRAVE GIRL'S ACT.

A bill will shortly be introduced in Congress for the relief of Mrs. Florence Cochenower, of Hyde Park, Mass. The history of the case is an interesting one, and is thus related by General Rosecrans, from whom the material facts were obtained:

On a late day in November, 1862, while pushing my preparations for advancing on the rebel army at Murfreesboro, Tenn., an orderly came to my headquarters at Nashville, and told me that a young woman, drenched with rain, had just come in from the South with information for the commanding general of the Union forces. She proved to be a blue-eyed, brown-haired, medium-sized young girl of sixteen or eighteen years, with a face remarkable for its combination of frank innocence, courage, enthusiasm and sweetness. I told her I was the Union commander for whom she had some information. She said: "My name is Florence Courtney. I live with my mother in Franklin, Tenn., twenty-eight miles south from here. My family is inclined to sympathize with the Southern troops, but I am enthusiastic for the Union. I came to tell you that the Texas rebel cavalry have taken possession of our town and are using our flouring mill to turn out sixty or seventy barrels of flour a day, most of which is sent over to Bragg's army at Murfreesboro."

"How did you come here?" I asked. "I got up about two o'clock this morning," said she, "when it was raining so hard that I thought nobody would be out to notice, saddled my horse myself, mounted her and started for Nashville in the pouring rain. When I came to the ford, the Harpeth River was so swollen by the rain that the water nearly covered my horse's back, but I was determined to cross at all hazards. I got safely over, and as no cavalry men were on the road to stop me, I reached here safe this morning by daylight, and here I am, general."

I questioned her carefully, and received answers so full, clear and exact that I was as much astonished at their accuracy as I was fully convinced of her courageous and thoroughly spontaneous loyalty. Having finished her story, and while waiting for breakfast, the poor child espied a piano in one corner of the room. Opening the instrument she played, with great feeling and skill, the "Star Spangled Banner."

I ordered a place and protection for her until she could safely return to her family. Meanwhile, upon the information she had given, I planned a cavalry expedition, which utterly routed or captured the Confederate Texas brigade and burned the mill, which was furnishing daily from 12,000 to 15,000 pounds of flour to Bragg's army. Subsequently, when our troops occupied Franklin, special orders were given for the protection of the Courtney family, which distinguished itself by its generous services to our sick and wounded, and for hospitality to our officers. Florence Courtney's subsequent history is a sad one. Her married life was filled with more than the ordinary amount of trial and suffering. She is now living in Massachusetts in indigent circumstances. She ought to be given a pension for her loyalty and devotion to the Union cause. A number of influential persons are interested in her behalf and it is their intention to push the matter vigorously at the present session of Congress.

Great Guaranteed Stakes

ARRANGEMENTS FOR BIG RACES AT CHARTER OAK PARK.

The managers of Charter Oak Park, at Hartford, Ct., have completed their arrangements for the three great guaranteed stake races during the grand circuit meeting in the first week of September. The $10,000 race for the 20 class will be known as the "Charter Oak" stake, the $3,000 race for the 30 class as the "Standard stake, and the $4,000 race for the 20 pacing class as the "Insurance" stakes.

Entries close May 1. Two per cent is payable then, two per cent June 14, three per cent July 30, and three per cent August 25, when the horses are to be named. Subscribers will be liable only for the amount actually paid in, but if a subscriber falls to make any of the payments when due, he must surrender his subscription and payments to the association, with the right of substitution. Subscribers may transfer their subscriptions. Horses eligible May 1 are eligible for the races.

The entire stake subscribed is to be devoted to the class and guaranteed by the association to be not less than the amounts named. The money will be divided into fifty, twenty-five, fifteen and ten per cent of the stake.

Go West Young Man and Freeze Up with the country, is the way, Horace Greely's familiar admonition is rendered this winter, and the average Westerner when he is not too busy in thawing himself out, is putting in his time in showering blessings (?) on Horace's memory. The blizzard and cold wave in their modified form as we get them East are bad enough, but with such adjuncts as our

and the fact that they are worth $3.00, or we hope to freeze, they are rendered quite endurable.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.
CURE SICK HEAD ACHE
Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing
Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured
Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint, but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.
Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills makes a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.
CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.
